

CONSIDER NEW BASIS FOR NEGOTIATIONS

Certain Questions in Mexican Situation Contemplated as Having Been Disposed Of

CANNOT RECOGNIZE HUERTA

Further Negotiations Would Look to Establishment of Effective Armistice and Holding Fair Election, It Is Understood

HUERTAT INTENDS TO BE A CANDIDATE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Administration officials declared late tonight that both Nelson O'Shaughnessy, charge affairs of the American embassy at Mexico City, and John Lind, President Wilson's personal envoy at Vera Cruz, were in frequent communication with officials of the Huerta government concerning a new basis for negotiations. A new basis for the parleys, contemplates certain questions as having been definitely disposed of. The Washington government considers that it has made itself clear that it cannot under any circumstances recognize the Huerta government.

It is understood that further negotiations by Messrs. O'Shaughnessy and Lind would look to the establishment of an effective armistice and the holding of a fair and free election.

Administration officials revealed tonight that the optimism they have felt in the last few days over the Mexican situation has been based largely upon the indirect assurance of Huerta's intention not to be a candidate in the October elections.

Can Easily Evade Provision. Much stress was laid at the White House and other official quarters on the assertions of Federico Gamboa, Mexican minister of foreign affairs, that Huerta under Mexican legislation cannot succeed himself. Among the constitutionalists here, the view is held, however, that the prohibition against Huerta's candidacy easily could be evaded.

Much significance is attached to the pronouncement in concert of various official and semi-official newspapers in Mexico City a few days ago that Huerta would now be compelled to be a candidate, because he had successfully defied the United States in the Lind negotiations. Unofficial reports continue to reach Washington that the Huerta government cannot last much longer, on account of its financial difficulties.

Dr. William Bayard Hale, personal friend of President Wilson, who has been making a study of the political conditions in Mexico for the last three months, arrived here today. He will talk with President Wilson at length tomorrow and can give him a more comprehensive view of affairs in Mexico than has been possible through messages.

Huerta to Be a Candidate.

Mexico City, Sept. 3.—That General Huerta intends to quit the presidency in favor of General Gerónimo Treviño and will be a candidate at the October elections, is the statement made tonight by a well known Mexican close to the administration.

General Treviño is making his way to the capital and little effort has been made to disguise the fact that he has been officially summoned.

It is said that General Treviño is to be made minister of foreign relations in order legally to succeed to the presidency. He is expected to reach Mexico City tomorrow.

DUNNE DOES NOT FAVOR ALL

NOVEL IDEAS OF LEGISLATIVES

Sees Something That Might Prove of Great Value to Illinois in Some of Them, However.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 3.—Governor Dunne, who today returned from Colorado Springs where he attended the governor's conference, is not in favor of all the novel ideas suggested before the State Legislatures being carried out in the State of Illinois. In many of them, however, he sees something that might prove of great value to the state.

Speaking of the commission plan of Governor Hodges of Kansas, Governor Dunne said: "Hodges told the conference that he was in favor of abolishing one branch of the legislature and decreasing the other house to one member from each congressional district. I told him I might favor the plan if instead of abolishing the senate he asked that its number be decreased to twenty-five and it be compelled to meet several days before the session of the lower house considering all legislation that is to come before the assembly. It could then work over the bills with the help of the legislative bureau and when lower house would meet all legislation would be shaped up for proper consideration."

BROOM CORN CROP SHORT.

Decatur, Ill., Sept. 3.—Reports from Arcola, Ill., center of the Illinois broom corn farms, state that the crop will be 140 per cent as large as in 1912. While broom corn is a dry weather plant, the continued drought has greatly affected the yield. Brush will be ready for delivery about September 15. The first was sold today at $160 a ton.

BANDIT GIVES STORY OF ST. LOUIS MURDER

F. MOELLER CONFESSES TO HIS PART IN KILLING SALOON KEEPER

Said He Accidentally Fired One Shot and Richard Murray, His Companion, Fired Three Times—Second Man Has Not Been Captured.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 3.—Frederick Moeller confessed to the police here tonight that he was one of the two bandits who last night killed Stephen Lukos, a saloonkeeper. In a signed statement Moeller said he accidentally fired one shot while scuffling with Lukos and that Richard Murray, his companion, fired three more shots. Murray has not been apprehended.

Moeller, who is a shoe worker, declared that Murray first suggested that they turn bandits. It was he also who bought two revolvers and gave one to Moeller, the captured bandit said. They then visited half a dozen saloons planning the attempted robbery, which terminated in the murder of Lukos.

The tall and short bandits entered Lukos' saloon shortly before closing time. The sole patron in the place fled at the sight of the two armed men. Mrs. Dora Lukos, the saloon owner's bride of a few months, begged the bandits not to kill her husband as she saw him grapple with the smaller man.

As she heard the four shots in quick succession and saw her husband fall, Mrs. Lukos fainted. Moeller was identified by means of a bloody shirt found in his room. Mrs. Lukos declared it was the garment he wore when he shot her husband.

Moeller's confession was obtained after eighteen hours of continuous "sweating" by police and detectives. Moeller is 24 years old. His wife and their son were present and wept when he declared the confession.

DEFEND OPERATORS RIGHT TO KEEP ORGANIZERS OFF PROPERTY

M. T. Davis, President of Paint Creek Consolidated Coal Company, Testifies Before Senate Committee.

Washington, Sept. 3.—Emphatic defense of the right of West Virginia coal operators to keep labor organizers off their property, featured the testimony today of M. T. Davis, president of the Paint Creek Consolidated Coal company, before the senate special committee investigating the recent troubles in the coal fields.

Mr. Davis declared that the attempts of United Mine Workers' agents to come into the district and unionize the mines caused the strikes. He pictured scenes of contentment and prosperity among the miners before the advent of the "outsiders."

This witness and his son, Ira F. Davis, general manager of the Paint Creek company, told the committee that comparatively harmonious conditions now existed on Paint Creek, the miners having returned to work August 1, after an agreement to operate the mines as "open shops" with an increase of 11 per cent in wages.

Both witnesses defended the "guard system" as resulting in better order.

BRILLIANT ANTE-NUPTIAL BANQUET PRECEDES MARRIAGE OF ROYALISTS

Ex-King Manuel of Portugal and Princess Augustine Victoria of Hohenzollern Will Wed Today.

Sigmaringen, Germany, Sept. 3.—A brilliant ante-nuptial banquet was held here today in connection with the marriage of ex-King Manuel of Portugal and Princess Augustine Victoria of Hohenzollern, which is to be performed tomorrow by Cardinal Netto, former archbishop patriarch of Lisbon.

The seventy-four guests who assembled today in the Portuguese gallery of the great castle overlooking the Danube included, besides members of the family, about twenty royal highnesses. Principal among them were the prince of Wales, representing King George of England; Prince Eil Friederich, representing the German emperor; Infante and Infanta Carlos of Spain, representing the duke of Genoa and the duke and duchess of Aosta, representing the Italian royal family. In the formal publication of the bans, which was made on Sunday in conformity with the papal dispensation, ex-King Manuel was given all his titles, including that of majesty.

EIGHT MEN OF THE NEBRASKA

NARROWLY ESCAPE DROWNING

Launch Caught in Waterspout in Hampton Roads—Spectators See Accident From Shore.

Newport News, Va., Sept. 3.—Three petty officers and five firemen from the battleship Nebraska narrowly escaped drowning in Hampton Roads today when a water spout swamped a launch in which they were heading for shore at Old Point. Spectators along the shore saw the accident and believed that all on board the craft had gone down. News of the rescue did not reach shore until tonight, when the sea in the Roads had subsided and boats from the fleet were permitted to go to Old Point.

INAUGURATE CONVICT ROAD LABOR CAMP

ORTY FIVE WILL BEGIN WORK ON LEE COUNTY HIGHWAYS TODAY

Prisoners Allowed Freedom of Ordinary Laborers—Unknown to Warden Men Take Oath to Deal Summarily With Any Who Violates Trust.

DIXON, Ill., Sept. 3.—Forty-five men, sentenced to Joliet penitentiary for various terms less than five years today inaugurated the first convict road labor camp in Illinois. The prisoners came to Dixon in a special car. On arrival at camp they were met by Warden Murphy and a person representative of Governor Dunne. Khaki suits were issued and they prepared their camp and ate their camp dinner. Warden Allen and representatives of the press dined with them.

Tomorrow the men will commence the work of grading down a big clay hill at Grand Detour on the state road from Dixon to Oregon and Rockford. Two guards will stay with them, but they will be allowed the freedom of ordinary laborers and can visit when not at work. Smoking and games will be permitted and on Sunday friends may visit the camp.

All the convicts expressed their appreciation of the opportunity to work out doors. Should any one attempt to discredit the camp in any way he will meet with summary punishment at the hands of his comrades.

Convicts Take Oath.

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 3.—At dawn this morning the forty-five convicts, picked to form the road working gang took an oath, unknown to Warden Allen or the officials of the prison, to deal summarily with any member of the gang who should violate the trust imposed in them. The whispered ceremony was overheard by one of the convicts in the cell block. "I would hate to be the man who breaks that pledge given to the other boys," he said, "for he will be terribly punished before he is turned back to the authorities."

According to the pledge, any convict making his escape will be hunted down by his fellows.

To Inspect Convicts' Work.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 3.—A. N. John, engineer of the state highway commission department, will go to Dixon tomorrow to see the Joliet convicts at work on the Lee county roads. The convicts, forty-five picked men, dressed in laborers' clothes and unshackled, began work on the roads near Dixon today.

YOUTH CONFESSES TO ROBBING GRAVE OF MRS. PAULINE BLUM

Thought it Was a Waste to Allow Woman's Jewels and Coffin in Grave, so He Concealed the Idea of Returning Them.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Possessed with a desire to "prevent waste," due, physicians say, to a diseased mind, John Stephens, aged 19, son of an Albany merchant, last night robbed the grave of Mrs. Pauline Blum, who was buried yesterday.

A workman about the cemetery discovered the desecrated grave today. The body lay in one end covered with earth. One finger, together with a ring and earrings, was missing, as was the inner coffin.

A maid in the Stephens home tonight found the coffin in the cellar. She notified the family physician, who secured young Stephens' story. He was out riding on a bicycle Sunday and passed the cemetery during the burial service. He thought, he said, that it was a waste to allow the woman's jewels and the coffin to remain in the grave, so he conceived the idea of returning them to them. Tuesday night he went alone to the grave, dug to the outer receptacle, removed the body and carried the coffin and jewels home.

ARKANSAS PEOPLE OBSERVE "GOOD ROADS" DAY BY WORK

Hundreds of Miles of Highways Put in Better Shape Than Ever Before—Program to be Repeated Today.

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 5.—Business was forgotten in Arkansas today while the people worked the roads. It was the first of two "good roads" days, proclaimed by Governor George W. Hays, and it was a success. Everywhere citizens wielded the shovel and pick and the banker put in as long hours and worked just as hard as the hired laborers.

As a result, hundreds of miles of the state's highways are in better shape tonight than ever before. Tomorrow will be a repetition of today. Governor Major of Missouri, who came to Arkansas to give an exhibition of plain and fancy shoveling, put in a good day's work, as did Governor Hays.

Except in several counties where the roads are so hard because of lack of moisture that it was deemed inadvisable to work them now, the day was observed all over the state. In hundreds of towns every place of business was closed.

MANCHESTER, Sept. 3.—The most disastrous fire that Manchester has suffered in many years destroyed 3,000 bales of cotton, 2,000 cases of cloth and great quantities of other goods today. The loss will amount to more than $1,250,000.

DEBATE PROPOSED CURRENCY BILL

Administration Measure Is Under Consideration at Both Ends of the Capitol

BANKERS BEFORE SENATE

Representatives of Bankers' Ass'n Continue Criticism of Bill Before Committee—Republican Efforts in House Ineffective

FAVOR NEW HEARINGS IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The administration currency bill was under fire at both ends of the capitol today. While representatives of the American Bankers' Association continued their criticism of the bill before the senate currency committee, the committee adopted a resolution by Representative Wingo of Arkansas, Democrat, declaring the views of the American Bankers' Association were fully known, and that the amendments postponed by the recent bankers' conference at Chicago had been repeatedly suggested to the proponents of the bill and everyone of them seriously discussed and carefully considered.

This action will result in the reporting of the measure to the house next Monday.

The senate hearings will continue throughout the week, with the members of the bankers' committee as chief witnesses. It is expected that an effort will be made within a short time by Republican members of the committee to force the senate to go on record on a motion to defer all currency legislation until December.

Opposes Bankers' Suggestions. Today's session of the senate committee was interrupted by a banker, not a member of the Chicago conference committee, who opposed many of the suggestions made by the bankers' committee. This witness, John T. M. Johnston, president of the National Reserve Bank of Kansas City, said the central bank idea advocated by many of the bankers, tended to "centralization of power."

He favored the administration plan as a "decisive realization of power."

Festus J. Wade, president of the Mercantile Trust Company of St. Louis, the chief representative of the bankers' conference before the committee today declared that the administration bill was a "force bill."

He did not believe he said, that such a plan could be worked out without putting the government into the general banking business.

The content of only 10 percent of the National banks to join the proposed system, would make it impossible to secure the necessary $5,000,000 capital for regional reserve banks in the middle states," said Mr. Wade.

"It is my opinion," he said, "that if the present bill would pass today, it would be absolutely inoperative tomorrow, if you attempt to put this bill through, calling for the origin of two reserve banks each with a minimum capital of $5,000,000 and confine the scenes to stock to National banks, it is our judgement that the plan will be unsuccessful."

Mr. Wade endorsed a suggestion made yesterday by Senator Weeks for the selection of a list of fifty or more men by the banks from which the president might appoint four members to serve on the federal reserve board.

"What we want is bankers of experience on that board," he said, "we dare not trust the entire control of the financial structure of the country to cabinet officers."

ARMY-NAVY FOOTBALL GAME WILL BE PLAYED IN NEW YORK

Secretary of Navy Daniels Makes Announcement—Elaborate Arrangements Made For Contest.

New York, Sept. 3.—The army-navy football game will be played at the New York National League baseball grounds, November 29, it was announced today by Secretary of the Navy Daniels in Washington.

Officers of the New York baseball club said this afternoon that elaborate arrangements had been made for the game. The infield and diamond will be sodded with heavy turf immediately after the close of the world's series. The present stands will be connected in such a manner as to form a complete oval around the gridiron. Plans to seat 40,000 spectators are complete.

The new field will be tested by several teams before the Army-Navy game. Dartmouth and the Carlisle Indians are scheduled to play on it November 15.

DRIVER BADLY INJURED.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 3.—Frank Reynolds, of Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, who has been driving harness horses in the great western circuit, was dangerously injured today during a race on the state fair grounds. Reynolds was driving the racing mare Brownetta in the feature event of the day when the horse fell, throwing Reynolds from his seat.

Another horse ran over the prostrate man, striking him twice on the head. Tonight Reynolds had not regained consciousness and physicians fear a fatal result.

NEW HAVEN R. R. FACES RIGID PUBLIC INQUIRY

PROBE TO BEGIN FRIDAY AND WILL BE MOST SEARCHING EVER CONDUCTED

Probe Into Cause of New Haven Wreck Will Be Made by the Interstate Commerce Commission—Elliott Willing to Have Testimony Made Public.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 3.—With twenty-one dead and five dying as the result of the wreck near New Haven yesterday of the Bar Harbor Express, the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad faces tonight a public inquiry into the causes of the disaster by the interstate commerce commission. It will begin Friday and will be the most searching ever conducted by the commission into and railroad catastrophe.

This was announced tonight by H. W. Belnap, chief inspector of the commission, who arrived here today. Commissioner McChord will preside and Mr. Belnap will conduct the examination of witnesses.

Coroner Mix presided today in refusing to make public the testimony of Engineer Miller of the White Mountain Express which crashed into the Bar Harbor train, or of flagman Murray of the latter train. This attitude was also taken by C. C. Elwell, chief engineer of the Connecticut public utilities commission.

The coroner will begin tomorrow his formal inquiry to fix, he said, "the criminal responsibility" but this also will be private.

Mr. Belnap demanded that he be allowed to be present at the inquiry. To this the coroner acceded and promised a copy of the testimony already taken. President Elliott tonight declared that as far as he was concerned he was perfectly willing for the testimony to become public.

Springfield Man Was Fireman.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 3.—Edward A. Robertson of West Springfield was a fireman in both front wrecks on the New Haven road. He was fireman on the train that was run into at Stamford on June 12, when six persons were killed and half a score injured and he was fireman on the engine that ran into the Bar Harbor Express Tuesday at North Haven, when twenty-one were killed and half a hundred injured.

Mr. Robertson is no more than shaken up and will be able to resume his work next week.

FORMER CONGRESSMAN WILSON SHOOT DEPUTY SHERIFF

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 3.—Former Congressman Edgar Wilson, after being arrested here today on a charge of drunkenness, whipped out a revolver and shot Deputy Sheriff Harry Champlin. The bullet took off two of Champlin's fingers and struck him in the head. His hand struck the bullet just enough to prevent a mortal wound.

The shooting occurred in the sheriff's office after Wilson had been taken there from his home by Champlin and another deputy. Those who witnessed the affair are convinced that Wilson intended to commit suicide.

Wilson represented Idaho at Washington from 1896 to 1898. He was associate counsel for the defense in the Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone trials.

LOLA NORRIS ADMITS FALSE TESTIMONY

EXPLAINS HER EFFORTS TO SHIELD CAMINETTI AND MAURY DIGGS

Mrs. Caminetti Tells of Husband's Nervousness and Lack of Appetite, Describes Domestic Strife and Tells of Her Threat to Carry Their Infidelities to the Juvenile Court—Defendant Will Take Stand Today.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—Lola Norris admitted today in the trial of F. Drew Caminetti for alleged violation of the Mann white slave act that she had given false testimony about her relations with Caminetti, explaining her first efforts to shield Caminetti and Maury I. Diggs, she said that she had lied to save the man she loved and whom she then trusted.

Mrs. Caminetti followed her. She made a willing witness for her husband.

Tomorrow Caminetti will begin his personal defense with his own account of how he happened to leave his wife in Sacramento with a baby 3 weeks old, when he went across the California line with Lola Norris. Caminetti had expected to testify today but the government forestalled him and instead he listened to his own words, after the Reno trip as taken down by S. W. E. Doan, a Sacramento court reporter, in reply to the questions of F. A. Atkinson, of Sacramento county.

In the course of the interrogatory, the accuracy of which Caminetti does not question, as taken down by Doan, he repeatedly admitted that he had promised to marry Miss Norris after he should have obtained a divorce from his wife on the grounds of physical cruelty.

With its production of his testimony, the government rested abruptly. Marshall Woodworth, chief counsel for the defense, in stating his case, announced that "the statement made in the trial by the defendant to District Attorney Bronson was a 'frame up' between Diggs and Caminetti to protect the girls."

Mrs. Caminetti Testifies.

Mrs. Caminetti on the witness stand testified to her husband's nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of appetite during the week before he left her and of her threats to carry their domestic infidelities to the juvenile court.

"I told him I had been to see Judge Hughes," she swore, "and he replied: 'My God girl, haven't I worried enough?' I had been told he was going around with these girls. I told him that Mrs. Diggs and I had had several conversations about it and had been advised to bring suit against Mr. Warrington if Miss Warrington did not stop going around with our husbands. She was boasting of it, we were told, and both the girls said they didn't care if the men were married. 'They should worry' was what they said."

D. T. Lettich, a Sacramento chauffeur, horrified Judge Vance Fleet by telling bluntly how he had heard Diggs' landlord, Diepenbrock, "give him hell" with sulphurous embellishments.

"Don't give your opinion of Mr. Diepenbrock's conversation," warned the judge, giving a furious tug at his moustache. "Tell us in his exact words, if you can, what Mr. Diepenbrock said."

The literal quotation that followed astonished the court.

Caminetti's testimony tomorrow is not expected to consume more than half an hour on direct examination and the defense should rest by noon.

MAY BE DEPORTED TO VERMONT TODAY

Writ of Habeas Corpus Secured by Jerome Is Sustained by Judge Hutchinson

IS TAKEN TO COATICOOKE

Thaw Is Hurried by Immigration Officials to Coaticooke Where A Special Court of Inquiry Will Sit On His Case Today

NO PLANS TO RESIST EXTRADITION

COATICOOK, Que., Sept. 3.—Harry Kendall Thaw, tried out of the Sherbrooke jail on a writ of habeas corpus obtained by a couple of William Travers Jerome, enjoyed three minutes of liberty this afternoon and was then seized by the Dominion immigration authorities and hustled by automobile to this little town where tonight he paced the floor in the immigration detention room over the Grand Trunk Railway station.

Tomorrow morning a special court of inquiry will sit in his case and by night he may be thrust across the Vermont border as an undesirable alien. His lawyers have planned no procedure to resist extradition and the belief was current tonight that before many hours Thaw would be back in the Matteawan asylum for the criminal insane, from which he escaped Sunday, Aug. 17.

The beginning of the end of Thaw's refuge in Canada came with swiftness. A writ of habeas corpus, issued last Saturday at the direction of Jerome, was sustained at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon by Judge Hutchinson. Palled and numb, Thaw sat not five feet from the judge as he read the decision. When the court declared Thaw must leave his refuge in jail, Thaw seemed to crumple up on the lounge where he sat. A cigar stump fell from his left hand and scattered ashes on the floor, from his right hand fluttered two gay bits of ribbon a child had given him.

W. K. McKeown, one of his counsel, leaned over and whispered. Thaw raised his big staring eyes and stood up. Immigration officers headed by E. Blake Robertson, followed him to the door. At the threshold Robertson said simply: "Come with us, Mr. Thaw."

Counsel's Statement.

W. L. Shurtleff, of Thaw's counsel, issued this statement here: "If they have doctors all ready to pronounce Thaw insane, as I am informed they have, there is almost no hope of preventing his immediate deportation. If the authorities at Otisburg are as determined to send Thaw back as they seem to be, then I doubt very much whether they would pay any attention to any writ of prohibition we might obtain."

Thaw, when told that the inquiry here was to be held in secret, wrote out this question and sent it down to the reporters: "Is it true that English law allows a secret trial, with the public excluded, when a man's life or liberty is at stake, like in Turkey or Bulgaria?"

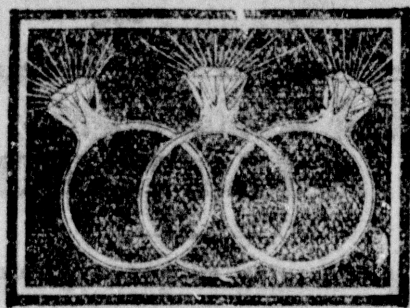

LETTERS TELL OF NUMEROUS ATROCITIES COMMITTED BY GREEKS

Epistles Made Public in Sofia Tell of Burning of Villages and Torturing of Prisoners.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Monday, August 18.—In order to prove that Greek soldiers were responsible for numerous atrocities against the Bulgarians in the fighting last July between Bulgaria and Greece, there have been made public in Sofia extracts from letters written by Greek soldiers and officers to friends at home. Extracts follow:

"We have burned all the villages abandoned by the Bulgarians. They burned the Greek villages and we the Bulgarian villages. They massacred, we massacred, and the rifle has ended every member of this dishonest nation who has fallen into our hands. Out of 1,200 persons that we took at Nigritia, only 41 remained in prison and everywhere we went we have left no root of

COACH HARMON WILL VISIT INDIAN CAMP

Will Spend Two Weeks in Cathlamet, Getting Footers From Famous Coach Glenn S. Warner—Other Football Notes.

Coach W. T. Harmon of Illinois college has gone to Cathlamet, Pa., where he will spend two weeks watching Glenn S. Warner coach his football men. Warner was an All-American guard for three years, while he was in Cornell. Since then he has coached for 16 years, and is unquestionably one of the best coaches in the country. A few years ago Warner started a correspondence course in football, which has been of very great aid to coaches and football players the country over. Warner was the first man to put his knowledge of football on paper and give it to the public. He published the plays which he used so successfully at Cathlamet. Then he turned out a team of Indians who used those identical plays in defeating the best teams of the country.

Coach Harmon does not expect to get all his knowledge by watching or by absorption, but expects to den the football togs and mix with the redskins. He will get to see the Indians play one game against Albright college on September 29. He will arrive in Jacksonville Monday afternoon the week Illinois opens. A large number of old football men are coming back to Illinois and a good bunch of new material. Coach Harmon should have a team second to none among the minor colleges.

Football at J. H. S.

Prospects are good for a strong team at the Jacksonville High school this year. A number of old men will be in line and there is some splendid material from students coming in from the rural districts. Coach Buland is expected in the city the latter part of the week and no time will be lost in getting the men lined up. Jacksonville expects to schedule some strong games this fall. Springfield, the local's old opponent is already getting things in shape for the coming season. They will lose two or three of their good men, but they claim to have some splendid new material. They are in communication with games from this city, Bloomington, Decatur, Urbana, Champaign, Danville and Taylorville.

Decatur High School. It is not at all improbable that Jacksonville will have a game this year with Decatur. The coach there is H. H. Benke, who has been training under Stutz, the coach of Chicago. It is the intention of Mr. Benke to use more shift plays this year and if possible to confine his team to that style of football. This year's rule permitting the outside kick anywhere back of the scrimmage line will be an added help to the shift play. A speedy team can work the shift plays to a good advantage.

Illinois university, although school does not open for sometime has a squad of men at work. The men who have returned are Wilson, Duff, Springer, Lichtenberger, Hoover, McDavid and Walraven. More is expected this year from Long, who played rather an erratic game last season. He is a good punter and drop kicker. Lichtenberger will probably play the position of quarter back. The line will be somewhat lighter than in former years, but speedier.

Boys and men who wear shirts size 14 or 14 1/2 should not fail to inspect the real bargains offered at FRANK BYRNS' Hat Store.

GOOD DRY WEATHER CROP.

There is on exhibition at Hall Bros. a sample of German millet mixed with cow peas, which has proved a good crop for dry seasons. The peas and millet seed, were sown on the farm of A. L. Nelson of Nortonville in the early part of June and have reached a good growth with very little rain. The two crops seem to thrive well together, the millet serving as a support for the peas and forming with them a nutritious feed.

A Store With a Double Service

It is gratifying to us to note the increasing number of farmers who are finding out that at this store they can exchange their produce for both groceries and drugs, the prices we pay them being the very highest the markets make possible. People in Jacksonville have learned, too, that we have exceptional offerings of country produce along with the other attractions of our store and are appreciating the service which can be afforded from our two departments.

If by some chance you have never visited this store and are not familiar with its absolutely clean and sanitary condition and with the high class of goods we carry, then let us suggest and hope for an early visit, assuring you of a most cordial welcome.

AT SIGMARINGEN.

Sigmaringen, Sept. 5.—The entire principalty is en fete for the wedding festivities of ex-King Manuel of Portugal and Princess Augustine Victoria, daughter of Prince William of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen. The streets of the ancient city are impassable, owing to the crowds of visitors who have come from far and near to witness the procession and other public features of the wedding celebration.

The civil marriage ceremony took place today at Prince William's castle, and was attended only by the immediate families of the bride and bridegroom. The ceremony was conducted by Count Eulenburg, earl-marshal to the Hohenzollern family. The religious ceremony tomorrow will be attended by representatives of all the royal families of Europe. The laws of Germany, like those of most continental countries, require both a civil and a religious marriage.

MRS. ROBERTS NOT GUILTY OF DISTURBING THE PEACE.

A jury in Justice J. J. Johnson's court in Chapin today found that Mrs. F. M. Roberts was not guilty of the charge of disturbing the peace and there was no reason for a bond. Dr. F. M. Roberts and his sister-in-law, Miss Susie Johnson of Chapin were the complaining witnesses in the case. Mrs. Roberts was represented by Attorneys W. T. Wilson and G. L. Merrill of this city. The trial was first called before Squire McKinney and a change of venue was taken to the court of J. J. Johnson. Mrs. Roberts asked for a jury trial which was granted. The contention of the state was that she made annoying visits to the home of Dr. Roberts and Miss Johnson in Chapin.

At the conclusion of the testimony for the prosecution Mrs. Roberts' attorneys submitted their case after argument without having her take the stand or presenting any other witnesses.

CAUSE WORRY TO PARENTS.

The parents of Miss Hilma Franz and Miss Alma Armstrong were greatly worried yesterday over the absence of their daughters. The girls are 15 and 16, respectively and are close friends. Yesterday morning they either left the city for an out of town visit with friends or at the home of friends here, and the parents were unable to account for their absence. They are hoping, however, for information about them today. The girls have never caused their parents trouble and have been at home even more than is usual with girls of their ages.

WERE WEDDED IN A BOWER OF FLOWERS AND FOLIAGE

Ceremony Which Solemnized Marriage of Miss Catherine Rogerson and Dr. H. C. Woltman Observed on Lawn—Reception Followed Service.

Out on the softly lighted lawn, under a graceful canopy of green, surrounded by garden flowers and foliage, the marriage service of Miss Catherine Mary Rogerson and Dr. Henry C. Woltman was celebrated Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The ceremony was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Rogerson of Lockwood Place and none more beautiful has been seen in Jacksonville. Rev. L. H. Davis, pastor of Westminster church, officiated.

It had been the intention to have the ceremony in the parlor of the home, which with other rooms were at the disposal of the guests, but because of the excessive heat it was determined to change the scene of solemnity to the lawn. No more charming arrangement could possibly have been made, for the lawn is shaded by great elms and there is a large garden of flowers and shrubbery. Near this garden and beneath a leafy bower, the altar was at least figuratively erected and there the vows were spoken.

While the guests were assembling Mrs. Frank P. Vickery at the piano gave a number of selections and was also accompanist for Miss Lena Hopper, who sang three numbers.

Mrs. Vickery's numbers were: Romance Binet Summer Night Chopin
A Major Prelude Chopin
Intermezzo Mascagni
O Lovely Night Offenbach
To a Wild Rose McDowell

Miss Hopper sang:

Beloved It Is Morn Florence Ayward

A Perfect Day Carrie Jacobs Bond

In the Dark, in the Dew C. Whitney Combs

Both vocal and instrumental selections added largely to the pleasure of the evening, as did the program given by the orchestra under the leadership of Viggo Jensen.

The Wedding Party.

The bride's maid was Miss Dorothy Rogerson, younger sister of the bride. She was gown in pink silk mull trimmed in pink rose buds. The maid of honor was Miss Agnes Rogerson, who also wore pink silk mull. Both young ladies carried bouquets of plumosa ferns tied with great bows of white chiffon.

The matron of honor was Mrs. W. A. Gore, her gown being of white silk crepe de chine.

Miss Rogerson's gown was a very handsome one of brocade crepe meteor trimmed with real lace and pearls. She wore, too, a pearl crescent, a gift of the groom and a sweeping veil of tulle. The gown was made exclusive Little Abbie Lee and Laura Young were the flower girls, dressed daintily in white and they carried baskets of white roses.

As Mrs. Vickery played the march from Lohengrin the bridal party moved from the parlors along an aisle of canvas to the south lawn where the service was said. Miss Dorothy Rogerson was the first and was followed by Mrs. W. A. Gore and Miss Agnes Rogerson in the order named. The flower children preceded the bride who was with her father Mr. George S. Rogerson.

Dr. Woltman was attended by Dr. G. H. Kopperl and with the minister they met the members of the bridal party beneath the canopy where the ceremony was performed.

Rev. Mr. Davis used the ring service and afterward came expressions of cordial good wishes from company of friends. While the service was impressive in its solemnity the fact that the company was assembled out of doors gave a certain delightful freedom and informality which was particularly desirable on this warm summer night. The guests enjoyed the freedom of the spacious and well lighted lawn and also the liberal rooms of the home.

The guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. George S. Rogerson, Mrs. Catherine Bradley, Mrs. Elsie Mitchell and Miss Bradley of Champlain. Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. George L. Merrill, Mrs. J. B. Young, Mrs. J. G. Capps, Mrs. Harrison King, Misses Ruth Widenham, Jeanette Russell, Ethel and Pearl Wylder.

In the hall way the decorations were red roses and in the parlor and living rooms green and white tones prevailed. In the dining room pink was the color effect. A large basket of roses, with bows of pink gauze ribbon was in the center of the table and at each corner was a candelabrum with pink shades decorated with flowers of the same color.

Vickery & Merrigan catered and the refreshments were of a generous kind. The handsome wedding gifts were displayed in an up stairs room.

When the bride's cake was cut Fletcher Hopper found the darling needle, Miss Ethel Wylder the dime, Miss Lena Hopper the penny and Miss Edith Clemmons the ring.

Will Take Lake Trip.

Dr. and Mrs. Woltman left Jacksonville on the Alton Hammer for Chicago. They will enjoy a lake trip and after their return will be at home at 216 West College avenue which Dr. Woltman purchased a few months since and which is now furnished and awaiting their occupancy.

DIRECTUM I SHOWS WONDERFUL SPEED

CHESTNUT STALLION TAKES 2:07 PACE IN STRAIGHT HEATS.

Leads Rest of Field Easily in First and Third Heats—In Second After Breaking at Quarter Pole and Dropping Far Behind He Makes Last Half Mile in 1:00½ and Wins Heat.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 3.—Directum I, the sensational pacing stallion of the season gave spectators at the Grand Circuit races today a fine spectacle of his speed when he took the 2:07 pace in straight heats. The Capital City, 2:08 trot was won by the little mare, Cheeny after losing the first heat. In the 2:20 trot, for three year olds, George Rex won after three heats. In the 2:09 trot, brought over from yesterday, Fan Patch, who just lost a chance to capture the race in the sixth heat when James W., nosed her out at the wire, came back strong this afternoon and beat Cox's horse in a close finish.

Directum I, surprised the crowd by his wonderful speed and the easy manner in which he led the rest of the field around the track in the first and third heats. An excellent idea of the possibilities of this stallion was to be found in the second heat, Directum I, breaking at the quarter pole and dropping four lengths behind the field. He went after the heat, despite the difference in discount and caught the bunch at the turn into the stretch, coming home in front. He made the last half mile in 1:00½.

Hollywood Kate had the first heat for 3 year olds almost won when about fifty feet from the wire the roan filly slipped and fell, George Rex coming in ahead. Tuna Z., had too much for Murphy's colt, in the second heat and won handily, but in the third another unexpected ending favored George Rex and Tuna Z., with the race all but won, broke less than 100 feet from the wire and George Rex came in a winner of the heat and the race.

Pruritis a Severe Form of Eczema

A Method of Home Treatment that is Very Effective.

There is probably no other remedy so well known as S. S. S. for the blood. And for this reason it is the one remedy invariably called for in treating pruritis and other skin diseases. But there are many people who do not insist upon having S. S. S. and are easily persuaded to try something else "just as good," so they are told. If your blood is thin; if your skin is irritated with eczema, lupus, tetter, psoriasis, or any other blood humor; if you are troubled with pimples or boils do not permit yourself to be talked into buying something else, but insist upon S. S. S. It is really a remarkable remedy. It contains one ingredient, the active purpose of which is to stimulate the tissues to the healthy selection of its own essential nutriment. And the medical elements of this matchless blood purifier are just as essential to well-balanced health as the nutritious elements of the meats, grains, fats and sugars of our daily food. These facts are brought out in a highly interesting book on skin diseases, compiled by the medical department of the Swift Specific Co., 184 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. It is mailed free, together with a special letter of advice, to all who are struggling with a blood disease.

A STRONG REFERENCE.
A young man recently applied for a position with a large printing house, and not having a letter of reference, offered his bank book. It showed a regularity of entries of deposit. It was a very strong recommendation, indicating character and persistence, which finally secured for him a good position.

THE WORLD'S LATEST FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

BEARS IN CONTROL OF STOCK MARKET

RAILROAD STOCKS ARE HEAVIEST AS A CLASS.

Government Weekly Review Tells of Unbroken Drought Over Large Sections of the Country—Another Weakening Feature is the Continued Loss of Cash by Banks.

(By Associated Press)
New York, Sept. 3.—Sentiment was distinctly bearish in the stock market today and the downward movement of the preceding session was carried further. Several railroads, including Rock Island and St. Paul, reported shrinkage in report for July. The effect of yesterday's unfavorable cotton crop report was heightened by the government's weekly review telling of unbroken drought over large sections.

Another weakening feature was the continued loss of cash by the banks while demands from the interior continued heavy. Railroad stocks were heaviest as a class, although Amalgamated, Steel and a few other industrials showed weakness. Losses among the leaders extended to more than two points in some cases.

Announcement that 80 per cent of Union Pacific's holdings of Southern Pacific had been subscribed for, assuring the success of the undertaking, played a part in bringing about a late rally.

The result fell short, however, of predictions that virtually the whole amount would be taken and Southern Pacific declined after the announcement to 89½, one year's low record. It was generally held, however, that the market's ability to absorb 80 per cent of an offering of $88,000,000 was an indication of improved conditions.

DR. J. T. MONTGOMERY,
President Illinois State Board of Agriculture, Charleston, Ill.

1913 GREATEST ILLINOIS FAIR

Will Be Held at Springfield, Ill., October 3 to 11.

WILL ECLIPSE FORMER FAIRS

Much to See and Learn in All Branches of Home and Farm—Exhibits Show Great Variety—Safety and Comfort of Visitors Assured.

The time is fast approaching for the meeting of the Illinois State fair of 1913.

The prospects for this, the greatest of all annual exhibitions, to eclipse all its former efforts are very promising.

The completion of the great barns in which to house the horses, the sheep and the swine, the greatest of their kind in the country, will be a pleasing surprise, not only for the exhibitors, but the visitors as well.

No addition to the already well equipped plant has made such a showing on the state fair grounds as has these wonderful buildings, not only from a utility standpoint, but from an architectural point as well.

It is with pardonable pride that the Illinois state board of agriculture presents this to the public inspection, and invites every citizen of this state and all other states to the fair of 1913.

There is no class of people who cannot attend it with profit to themselves.

It is the greatest laboratory for the observation and study of the best of its kind, in every department of agriculture and all kindred interests that is to be found in this or any other country.

The labor-saving devices of the world will be there, representatives well schooled in their mechanism and uses, will be there ready to give you any information you may desire.

It is a great post graduate school for the rapid absorption of useful knowledge for the already well educated farmer, as well as primary school for those who have not had the advantage of scientific agricultural education.

Here you may see the finished products from the hands of experts, not only in the products of the soil, in the cereals, the grasses and the tu-bers, and the cultural plants and flowers, but in the culinary and apian departments and in the textile department, where housewife as well as maiden may revel with pleasure and profit.

One of the greatest exhibitions of the horses, cattle, sheep and swine as well as poultry will be there.

Every labor-saving device that has cheapened the production of the necessities of life, and raised the calling of the agriculturist from a position of drudgery and hard labor, to that of independence and dignity, will be there.

Without the application of modern methods no attractive return can be realized from money and labor invested in farming. But by the application of such knowledge in any of these departments of agriculture no more useful, happy nor profitable vocation can be found.

And it is our desire that every citizen may have the benefit of the object lesson to be learned in this great exposition. It is well worthy of the labor, time and expense. The state board of agriculture urges upon all its people to come and learn.

J. T. MONTGOMERY, President.

For the Baseball Fans.
It is more than likely that the world's series baseball games will be played during the time that the Illinois state fair is held. The lovers of the national sport can get the results of these games by innings, immediately in front of the grandstand, at the Illinois state fair. The state board of agriculture have made arrangements with the Springfield Evening News to have a special wire between the fair grounds and the city.—Adv.

TRAVEL INCIDENTS IN CHINESE EMPIRE

"We walked at last out of that cold, dim treasure house into the court, full of melting snow and blinding sunlight and across it into the audience chamber, where that audacious, ivy colored paint enabled Manchu princess had meant to hold her court. It was dark and we stepped in from the dazzling light, but full gleam of gold-eaves gold, walls gold, and in the center of the room a raised and canopied dais. On this, before a monstrous screen, stood the throne—a giant's chair of gleaming old gold lacquer, a deep, shining seat, smooth as a mirror, wide enough and deep enough to seat three men, a royal, five clawed dragon rampant on arms and back.

The whole chamber was carpeted with a thick and brilliant yellow rug and this royal yellow newly laid and newly woven tapestry was covered an inch thick with the dust and dirt of months, feathers, broken birds' nests, bits of earth; and as we looked in amazement we heard a stir and movement above our heads where amid the gold eaves the fowls of the air were nesting unmolested.

"We followed our guide into the gloom and deathlike chill of another wonder house, and pause on a threshold of amazement. The place was lined with cabinets and shelves and there, row on row, piled and stacked, was an array of imperial porcelains, each bit a fortune in itself; bowls and basins and vases of matchless blue and white; ginger jars with lovely plum patterns, clear white, with rich blue medallions; curious old vases of Persian blue, form and pattern Persian, plain blue and powder blue. There they stood, great toppling columns of them, rice bowls, tea bowls, ordinary vessels of every day use, cast, as it were, in gold, and piled as unconcernedly as on a shelf bought by the ton. One end of the room was packed in yellow rice bowls, gourd basins and tiny shui cups, frail as egg shell, piled by the dozens, or hundreds rather; the pure unadorned royal yellow, half mustard, half canary, with the imperial dragon swimming beneath the glaze.

There were big vases of glistening bronze, of swelling and perfect proportion with iridescent gleams of flame and peacock green, dim and drowning. There were others of sea green, of a pure and delicate wash; others again of a pale blue, the very ghost of a summer sky with outlines simple and demure. There were gourdlike vases running through every tone of purple and thick brown, ending in petunia, amethyst and rose. There were scores of deep cream pieces and biscuit, bodily cracked. There were vases black as night and glossy; Famille verte in pairs with handles and quaint decorations, each color distinct and pure.

"We found four shelves of peach-blow, precious, slender little vases, identical in form, some placid and perfect peach, some a trifle paler, others ruddy, but all of the surface of satin without a flaw. There were thirty in the group, a common slobber-hood, doubtless all of one firing and probably akin to the peachblow in the Walters collection, identical as it is in shape and color. On another shelf were as many little peachblow boxes varying as a flame varies in tone and intensity.

"Above was another room crowded as that below. More blue and white, some wondrous sang de bouef, pulsing, bobbing tones, red and thick as blood clots. On the same shelf stood a pair of vases of greenish blue with a glaze brilliant as enamel and crushed into it a warm fawn color like a turquoise matrix mixed and melted. Hundreds of bowls again of dazzling white, thin and exquisite, every tone with the clear chime of a bell, rice bowls, wine cups, tea bowls, fish bowls, apple green this time, the royal dragon sprawling round the brim half smothered in the paste and so it went."

The distance to Mukden from Peking is 524 miles and a change of roads is here necessary and it is grateful, though there was no complaint of the other, but this time we take a Japanese train and anything done by that nation will surely be of the best and so it was. We had the choice of two trains. Our tickets called for first class and sleeper, but we would make it the till about midnight and rise early in the morning, so we took another train early in the evening and did wisely. The cars were seated with an aisle the whole length, only the seats on one side were single and on the other for three, but we soon saw what was the object, for when the train is not crowded the cushions on the single seats, which face each other, can be slipped down like those of a Pullman sleeper and make a comfortable bed and these we greatly enjoyed.
The road is 189 miles long.

Everything about the train and the service was perfect; the engines were things of beauty and the time made was good. Half past six next morning found us at Chang Chin, the end of the line and we had to change again to the Chinese Eastern Railway, but we were in Russian domains far more than Chinese. Our money must be changed to rubles and all about us showed the domains of the czar. The men were heavy boots with pants tucked into the tops, broad caps and all else indicating residents of the great kingdom, whose emblem is the bear. The engines were a wood burner, which was something I had not seen for many years, the last being on the road from Portland, Oregon, to San Francisco, the northern part. The track was excellent and one could write with ease. We had an eight person compartment all to ourselves and rode in comfort. The road is called the Chinese Eastern, but it seems to be Russian just the same and is 170 miles long.

June 22nd—Fine stone and brick stations all along the road showed that the Japanese and Russians had come to stay. Russians were on every hand and their peculiar ways were decidedly noticeable. The ride during the day was not marked by any noticeable events. All went smoothly and we were landed in the middle of the afternoon at Harbin. The city is at the extreme eastern side of Manchuria and at the western border of Mongolia and is like a town in many of our western states. In 1897, where the city is, was an open prairie and today the place contains nearly 100,000 inhabitants and the buildings the solidly constructed.

The place is made up of a triple city, the new Russian city, extending east from the railway station; Pristan, the old river town along the banks of the Sungari river, and Chi-natawon on the north. Although the territory is nominally Chinese, it is Russian to all intents and purposes.
There is the drosky which he have seen so often in pictures, a low lung spring vehicle to which is attached a horse, with a huge wooden half circle extending above the collar, a second horse hitched alongside and his single tree attached to a rope tied to the middle of the rig, while the driver, with heavy boots, sits behind the dorse and drives at a furious gait. The men generally have full beards and baggy trousers with heavy boots and pants tucked into the legs, the typical large caps worn on the back of the head and high in front.

This place is a noted gateway for the migrating Chinese, who flock at certain seasons of the year into Mongolia and Manchuria and back again into their native land by the tens and even hundreds of thousands. They filled the third class cars like cattle stowed in and seem to be happy, knowing nothing better. A Chinaman is made like few others. In the greater part of the country the weather is especially hot and enner-vating during several months of the year and missionaries have hard work to make new recruits take care of themselves. In the early days veterans thought they must stay with their charges twelve months of the year and the cemeteries told the result and now needed vacations are taken as a matter of necessity. A Caucasian will wear a pith helmet especially designed for hot weather and often an umbrella over that and the umbrella should also be covered with an extra covering of cotton cloth to be safe and even then heat prostrations are too frequent, yet in all this the coolie will go bareheaded from morning till night and suffer no apparent inconvenience.

June 23rd—As the hotels in these places have a way of getting all possible out of the travelers, we decided to take rooms only and eat where we chose, so we started out this morning to find a restaurant. We had fared very well and reasonably in the train dinner and thought we would see what Harbin afforded. We asked a Chinaman who could speak a little English where to go and he indicated the direction and said it was but a short distance, and off we started and found it like the Japanese "cho," a thing of really indefinite length. On we went till we thought we had found a place and entered and asked if we could get breakfast, but the man shook his head in dismay. It seemed to be a sort of a hotel and we thought we could be accommodated, but not so. Finally a man entered who knew two or three words of English, but happened to remark he understood German and I was happy, so at once I said:

"Wir wuesthen morgen essen; wo ist ein gaesthaus?" We wait breakfast; where is a restaurant.

At once his face lighted up:

"Kommen sie bei mir." Come with me.

We followed him meekly to a rather uninviting looking place, where several occupations seemed to be carried on, but such is Russia. It was a billiard table and a small table sat some men who had evidently been gaming all night from their appearance. A big fat woman was there to wait on us and through our kind interpreter we told her we wanted steaks, cocoa, toast and vegetables and in due time we were served with such a breakfast as I have not enjoyed in a good while. The steaks were ample in size and delicious and tender. The bread was both white and Russian black and lots of it; the milk was delicious and the potatoes were done to a turn; the cocoa was in very large cups and all was excellent and the cost for four people was 35 cents.

I forgot to say the day before being Sunday we were minded to observe it after our arrival, but diligent search failed to disclose any place of worship either of our faith or a Greek Catholic church open, all evidently not having evening service, so we had to give it up.

We then walked about the city a little and while there was not a great deal to be seen, still there are a few objects worthy of note. A fine Greek cathedral, with its peculiar, airy architecture was an object sought and though we were unacquainted with the Greek language, we thought we would look through the windows and see that it was very richly furnished within. There is another in another part of the city, but it is newer and not so richly furnished within. There are also a good many substantial and handsome residences and even Chingatawa has less equal and filth than are to be noticed in places occupied by the Celestials farther south.

One little incident didn't add much to our complacency. In Shanghai we were told it would be well to get Russian money, as it would cost less exchange there than elsewhere, so we invested in a part of our need at a large rate of exchange. In years, we thought it would be well to get some more, as we were rather advised that away up in Harbin there was no telling what we would have to pay, so we bought considerable more at a greater rate of exchange.
Our expenses were more than we anticipated on the way up, so we thought it might be wise to get a little more money from our travelers' checks and stepped into a bank, expecting to be held up in good shape. We found a manager, evidently a native of the light blue island, and he blandly handed us out our money and then we discovered that if we had waited till we reached this place to make our exchange we would have saved something like four or five dollars, but there was no help for it, as we did what seemed best.

In the evening we took a stroll to a fine park and watched the stream of people pass along the main walk and it was truly interesting, as this is something of a cosmopolitan city.
Of course it is nominally Chinese territory, but in reality poor China seems to have little to do with it.
The greater part of the pleasure seekers are clothed in modern dress, but there are exceptions. First come the soldiers, who are numerous and their equipment, strapping, young fellows with clean uniforms, the broad topped cap set a bit back on their heads, with deep front and stiff, stylish and noticeable. They all wear high tucked into the legs and walk with a jaunty gait as if monarchs of the earth. Occasionally an officer appears and he is resplendent in brilliant ornaments on his uniform and generally carries a sword and has spurs on his boots.

There is a lone old man, a genuine specimen of the typical Russian aristocrat and though it is summer he wears a fur cap, tall without a visor, a long cloak reaching well below his knees and large top boots, into which his pants are tucked. He walks solemnly along, speaking to no one and seems lost in meditation. There are two more elderly citizens, but they are satisfied to wear the common cap, baggy trousers, long, cotton coat or blouse with belt, heavy boots and pants inside, long beards and moustaches. Then there are hosts of children of all ages, merry, light hearted and fun loving. Some are evidently the members of well to do families and there are those in humile circumstances, and all full of fun and merriment. Frequently a soldier steps higher than usual and puts on more than ordinary airs, but he has a lady with him and that explains it all. It is also pleasant to see a man with his family and all looking happy, for that is something we had not seen in China.

♦♦♦♦♦ LITERBERRY. ♦♦♦♦♦

In times gone by we have told you of pleasant trips made in our Mitchell car. Our readers may think that owning and driving a car is a continual feast of good things, and that no pleasure ever comes to a man's share. We are of an optimistic disposition, always looking for the bright side and refusing to pay any attention to the little ills that are sure to come, regardless of ones bright disposition. For fear our readers will accuse us of only reporting the bright side of auto driving, we will try to report one of our experiences that will prove there are times when a good deal of patience as well as muscle is required to carry one through a journey successfully.
One day last week in tightening a nut on the auto pump we broke it, which caused the pump to leak scandalously bad. Nothing but a trip to the shop would remedy the evil. We cranked up and with a jug of water to replenish the radiator every few miles we and Mrs. Mc. and our friend, J. M. Litter, hit the road just after noon and pulled into George Wolke's garage about 2 p. m. without any trouble. Henry Wolke went to work on our job and we assisted. We both worked hard until 6 o'clock before we got through. We all got in a hurry; we wanted to get home before dark. Henry was about sick to get started to a chicken fry somewhere, so we did not take time to prove our work, but each went his way. We made a quick run out to Sherman school house and examined our engine and found the hottest engine we ever saw. The water was boiling worse than any geyser in Yellowstone park. Another auto from our town came along and Mrs.
Mc. went with them to Litterberry, saying she was afraid of a blow up instead of a blow out. After filling the radiator again with cold water, we started on our way, stopping at Charlie Black's for more water. We filled the radiator, also the jug and went on. A mile further we emptied the jug into the radiator and went on again to Ellis Petefish's place.
Mrs. Petefish offered to loan us a horse and buggy, but we declined, for we were determined to go home in the machine. We lighted our lamps and started for Shiloh church, but were compelled to stop near Jimmie Black's place, where we primed an old pump before getting any water.
The farther we went the harder our luck became, for when we tried to crank at this place the madam would only spit at us and kick like a bay mule. We finally got started, but had the same experience at Shiloh church. We were about to give up and start for our walk home, when we thought we would try once more, when she went off all right, and we were glad to make a run for the Litterberry school house, where we were to make our last stop; it came near being our last, for with all our patience and cleverness and good muscle we could not start the engine. Our lights were growing dim and the prospect for getting the machine home were against us. Mr.
Litter thought one more turn of the crank would be in order, and lo! she went off all right, and just as our lights went out we ran into our garage, glad, but as tired as any garage could possibly be. Mrs. Litter been keeping Mrs. Mc. company and she and her husband went on home, while we proceeded to take a bath and put on clean linen, after which we ate an enormous supper, finishing up with two cups of coffee and two good sized loaves of bread. Mrs. Mc. informed us that we ought not to go to bed for an hour at least, for if we did we would die of nightmare.
We were not afraid of the biggest nightmare that ever trotted through the land and retired just twenty minutes before 11 o'clock. In ten minutes we were doing that journey over and there was never a more strenuous journey made in the same length of time. We dreamed that we were going to demonstrate our Mitchell car to the king and queen of England and their crowns were so heavy we were compelled to start from the top of Ayers bank to get under full speed, and in a short city. We started, and in a short time were at Sherman school house, where a well was burning, sending a blaze to the sky. We poured water into this well and after a while our car came out ready for business.

Mrs. Mc. said she was afraid to ride in such a car and just then an airship came along and she got in that and sailed away. Mr. Litter and I were not uneasy about the safety of our car, but cranked up and ran out to Charlie Black's place, where we expected to fill our jug, but he had moved his well and he had a hard time locating it, but at last we found it on top of his house, where we pumped good water out of the chimney. We told Mr. Litter this was a curious place to have a well. Mr.
Litter said Mr. Black ran the water through the reservoir of the cook stove to keep it cool. We filled our jug and drove to Ellis Petefish's place. We asked Mrs. Petefish for a jug of water; she only made fun of us, saying we were not fit to run a sand cart and when we looked up at her to reply in fitting terms, we noticed she had seven heads and we were making sport of her. When we began saying something sarcastic, she called a dog as big as a Shetland pony and told him to take us. He snapped our head off at the first pass and ran around into the back yard growling. We jerked off a picket from the fence and went for the dog. The fight was short, but decisive and we came out to the road carrying our head in our hand. Mr.
Litter put some oil of gladness on our neck and stuck our head on all right and we started for Shiloh, where we filled our jug. We heard singing in the church and peeped in and saw the whole congregation standing on their heads singing "Hallelujah It Is Done." We said we did not know the Shiloh people stood that way in church and Mrs. Litter said they always stood that way to sing. We traveled on the bridge over Big Indian; here we killed our engine. Mr. Litter flew into a passion and jerked the steering wheel out of our hand and out of the machine and struck us on the head and drove our head between our shoulders, and he ran away with the car at 25 miles an hour. Grabbing up the steering wheel we started after him and before he reached the top of the hill he came up to him and running the shank of the wheel into the rear of the car, giving it a twist, we ran the car up a telephone pole, where it hung upside down, on the wire. Mr.
Litter was anxious about getting down and said if we would throw him the steering wheel he could come down on the next pole. We did and warned him to come down on low, for fear of a blow out. He came down all right and we made a run for the Litterberry school house, where we were to fill the radiator for our last run; but things seemed to be up against us, for the radiator was out and we had to go down with the school house. This so aggravated us that we picked up the school house to retaliate, when the teacher ran toward Litt's Indian, we following with the school house in our right hand. Just as he jumped the creek we fired the house at him and came back. We found Mr. Litter ready to go; the car was standing on end, the front wheels in the air. Mr. Litter said we must climb up and turn the crank like a coffee mill crank.
We did and after turning an hour and a half, the engine started and the car righted herself in such a hurry that we were compelled Mr. Liter not to heat her up, for our position was perilous. We soon arrived at Sunshine Cottage. Mrs. Litter came out and took Mr. Litter off the car and started for home. Mrs. Mc. came out with the range in her hand, and it was red hot, too, and threw it at us and knocked us from the radiator and we fell, not on the ground, but on the bedroom floor.
Mrs. Mc. said: "What in the name of common sense are you trying to do? I told you you would have a nightmare if you went to bed on that big supper." We said we did not have the nightmare, but the nightmare had been having fun with us. Just then the clock struck eleven.

PARCELS POST BUSINESS INCREASES
John T. Aid, the veteran mail carrier of Murrayville, was in the city yesterday. He says he is not carrying mail now as it is getting quite a matter of heavy load, since the parcel post law went into effect.

MUTUAL RELATIONS AND INTERESTS OF THE BELL SYSTEM AND THE PUBLIC

The suit brought by the United States questioning the purchase of certain telephone properties in the northwest, as well as the pending Interstate Commerce Commission telephone investigation, have caused many inquiries. Without taking up anything going to the merits of these proceedings, it has seemed to us proper to state generally what has been our policy and purpose in the conduct of our business.

We have found, or thought that we had, that our interests were best served when the public interests were best served; and we believe that such success as we have had has been because our business has been conducted on these lines.

We believe that our company has an interest as vital as that of the public in the proper administration of the problems of electrical intercommunication. The success and prosperity of our company depend upon a solution of these problems which shall be sound from both the standpoint of the company and the public which it serves.

Following our own best judgment, supplemented by the best obtainable advice, we have endeavored to do what would best serve the public interest; wherever possible our plans have been disclosed to the public in advance, and what has been done in carrying them out has been along ordinary business lines, with the implied, and generally, with the expressed approval, authorization or consent of the municipal and state authorities directly interested. Our effort has been not only to obey the law, but to avoid everything which might even have the appearance of an attempt at evasion.

Our business methods and policy, and practically all of the details as to the transaction of our business, are matters of common knowledge and are, and for many years have been, well known to the government. We will willingly furnish the government any additional information which is in our possession or under our control, and will cordially co-operate with it in obtaining such further information as it may require. Every possible assistance will be given by us to the government in its effort to determine whether our policy is or has been inimical to the public interest. We desire that anything wrong be corrected; we will voluntarily rectify any wrong that may be pointed out to us, and so far as we may be determined that our policy or any act under it is against the public interest, we will promptly conform to such determination.

We believe that if each of our exchanges were made an independent unit and if each connecting line were put under a separate control, the effect upon the telephone service of the country would be a condition so intolerable that the public would immediately require such physical connection and common control of these various units as would amalgamate them into a single system. Physical connection in the case of telephone or telegraph does not mean transfer of messages from one line to the other.
It means such a connection as will permit one person to have the actual possession of the particular line of communication from one end to the other, and this can only be given efficiently by exchange systems and connecting lines under a common control; and that is what the Bell System is.

In this connection and for general information, we will restate the policy which controlled the building up of the Bell System, and our belief as to what a telephone system should be, and what are its relations to the public.

We believe in and were the first to advocate state or government control and regulation of public utilities; that this control or regulation should be by permanent quasi-judicial bodies, acting after thorough investigation and governed by the equities of each case; and that this control or regulation, beyond requiring the greatest efficiency and economy, should not interfere with the management or operation of the utility by these bodies, if they are to be permanent, effective and of public benefit, should be thoroughly representative; they should be of such character and should so conduct their investigations and deliberations as to command such respect from both the public and corporations that both will without question accept their conclusions.

We believe that the public would in this way get all the advantages and avoid all the manifold disadvantages of public ownership.

We believe that centers of business and population exist for the convenience of the public as a whole, and that no such center can prosper without sufficient and efficient means of intercourse with other centers and tributary territories; that such means can only be afforded by prosperous utility and service companies and that fair rates are essential to prosperous companies, that no company can obtain, nor can any service or utility furnish, permanent and efficient service at less than cost, including all the manifold expenses of maintenance and depreciation, and that the public either directly or indirectly pays the losses involved in the efforts to furnish such service at less than its fair cost, either through the loss of the capital involved, the losses incident to poor service, or the necessary increase in charges required to pay for duplication of capital.

We believe that the highest commercial value of the telephone service depends on its completeness, on the extent and comprehensiveness of the facilities for intercommunication, not only between individuals but between centers of population; that no isolated section can be considered independently of any other section or of the whole; that rates must be so adjusted as to make it possible to obtain the maximum development by making it possible for every one to be connected who will add to the value of the system, thus giving the greatest value to the greatest number; that the interdependence of the telephone service and the value of complete and universal intercommunication justify and require some services partly at the expense of the whole for the benefit of the whole.

We believe that this highest commercial value can only be attained by the one system under one common control and cannot be given by independent systems unless they are operated under agreements which result in one common control and one common interest, in effect making them a single system.

We believe that rates should be so adjusted as to afford the company sufficient revenue to pay such wages and compensation as will secure the most efficient service; to maintain the very highest and most advanced standards of plant and apparatus, to carry on such scientific and experimental research and inventions as to apparatus and methods as to insure the highest standards, and to carry to reserve and depreciation such amounts as will enable the company at any time to replace old plant and old methods with new methods as fast they may be developed and found to be to the advantage of the system. We believe that in addition, such a system, which would be invested in the plant as will enable the company at any time to obtain the money necessary to provide the plant required to meet the continuing demands of the public; and in order that the wasteful expenditure of effort may be avoided and uni-

PLAN NEW ELEVATOR.

Farmers Held Meeting at Home of Caspar Luken to Talk of Project.

A number of leading farmers in the eastern part of the county held an enthusiastic meeting at the home of Caspar Luken near Franklin Tuesday afternoon and took initial steps for the organization of a farmers' elevator company to build and equip an elevator in that neighborhood and handle coal to be retailed at cost to members of the company.

It was definitely decided to build the elevator on a high knoll on the Mike Kenny farm, west of Dan McCarty's and open a public highway from the McCarty road to the Kenny road at once. Within the next year other roads are to be opened from the Kenny road to the Brown and Bergsneider road and from the McCarty road, south to the Sears and Moxon road, making the site of the elevator accessible to farmers in all directions.

The following committee was appointed to solicit stockholders in the company: On the north—Anton Bergsneider, Frank Eck and John Brown. In the center—James Kenney, Frank Ryan and Caspar Luken. On the south—Dan McCarty, I. L. Sears, John Bateman, Martin Feore and Thomas Hicks. Over $4,000 of the capital stock has already been subscribed.

The soliciting committee will report at a meeting to be held at the home of Daniel and Margaret McCarty next Tuesday, Sept. 9, at 3 p. m. Thomas Cain, of Arnold, who is interested in the farmers' elevator at that point, and the president of the Farmers' Mutual Elevator association, have been invited to be present at this meeting and it is expected they will be on hand and make short talks and offer suggestions to the stockholders which be of timely interest.

TAKING OUTING AT THE PARK.

The pleasant time which those who camped at Nichols park during the chautauqua had, suggests that the park offers opportunities to every resident of Jacksonville and Morgan county for a summer outing at little or no cost for the average camper will spend less for the daily rations than if he were living at home. No doubt any law-abiding citizen can at any time secure permission from the park commissioners to pitch a tent at the park. Fishing is fairly good there, boating is fine. There are plenty of shady spots where tenting would be delightful. Campers would not be far from a car line and so have easy access to supplies and when one gets to thinking about a summer outing without expense the answer certainly is—camping at Nichols park.
